

The world of Academia reaches far beyond the class level. It affects the students, the teachers, and their combined efforts in many ways. We seek the human side in education, to capture its different moods. It's a world revolving around inquiry, debate, and study, occasionally burdened with failure and sometimes brightened with success.

